WEEKLY UPDATE

There is much to be proud of at Tyndale as we move further into the autumn term. Last week, we welcomed the Trust for our school self-evaluation review, and “amazing” and “transformational” were two of the words used to describe what they saw. This is a wonderful reflection of the hard work of Team Tyndale, our children and our wider school community. We look forward to welcoming school and trust leader across the country next Thursday for our Excellence Visit, where they are coming to learn from us! Thank you for your continued partnership, from supporting reading at home to helping children arrive on time and ready to learn.

Mr Crouch

LEARNING

For Creative Writing Day, we gathered for an exciting assembly where a mystery suitcase full of strange objects was discovered, sparking the children’s imaginations to create some brilliant writing. It was wonderful to see so many parents join us in the afternoon to celebrate the children’s marvellous stories and see what they had been up to.

SEND SPOTLIGHT

Sirona Care & Health has introduced a new needs-led approach to supporting children with autism and ADHD-related needs. The focus is on identifying children's strengths and difficulties and providing support earlier, rather than waiting for a formal diagnosis. Schools and families will work together through a Neurodivergent Needs Analysis to identify appropriate strategies. Diagnostic assessments will remain available where needed. We will continue to share updates and support families in navigating these changes.

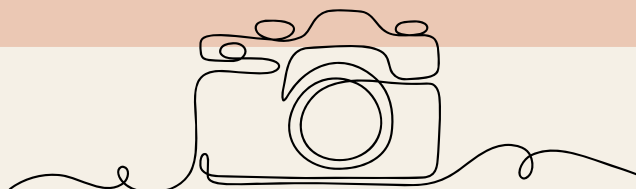

CHARACTER SPOTLIGHT

This week, our pupils have been showing fantastic character! Year 1 are using kind hands and respecting personal space, Year 2 are remembering their book bags and planners daily and Year 6 have shown great resilience and focus during assessment week. Year 6 have also taken on leadership roles across the school, being great role models. We are incredibly proud of them all!
